REVENUE CHIEF GETS FULL TFX FOR FIRST TIME

Lanier Lays Discrepancies Between Two Estimates to 'Misunderstanding'; Group Defends Figures. By FRANK DRAKE.

Revenue Commissioner T. Grady Head admitted yesterday that he made his critical radio attack on the house economy committee report last week without having seen a complete copy of the voluminous record of recommendations.

In fact, he received a copy of the report for the first time late yesterday afternoon after two appearances before the house group which reconvened at the state capitol to check over the report in final form before formal submission to Governor Rivers and the house of representatives.

Tried to Get Full Report. Head last night stated he had attempted to get the full commiftee report but was told it was not available. He said he had read what the economy committee termed its full report on the department of revenue and found no figures different from his own. The commissioner in a statement made after the committee adjourned stood by his estimate for next year's revenue, asserting that his figure of $14,179,000 "has not been modified, revised or changed by Staff Correspondent. MARIETTA, June 14 .- A Cobb county coroner's jury assembled today to inquire into the death of Aaron Saunders, fatally burned as he sat in the cab of an abandoned truck Tuesday morning, adjourned after questioning several witnesses until 10 o'clock Friday morning to await the results of an autopsy.

Doctors Van Teem and W. H. Perkerson reported to H. Grady Vandiviere, of Canton solicitor general of Blue Ridge circuit, that it would be 36 hours before evidences of dope or poison, if any, could be determined in Saunders'

Operators in City to Offer Here's One Tire That Won't Cause a Death Fleet of 150 Cabs. Increase in Street Car, Bus Service During Rushes.

A general improvement in street car, bus and taxicab service appeared likely for Atlanta as the short life of 10-cent taxicabs offi-cially ended at midnight last

Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Power Company, said improvements in the street railway and bus systems would include the following:

1. Additional buses for the Piedmont-Stewart line and the Virginia-Noble line. Four already ave been added.

2. A new schedule for five-cent shoppers' busses calling for their operation to begin at 8:30 o'clock in the morning—an hour earlier than previously—and end at 6:30 o'clock in the afternoo More Short Lines Seen.

3. Investigation into the feasi-bility of other short-haul bus lines at a five-cent fare without transfer privilages and operated during non-rush hours.
4. More frequent service on street car lines to relieve to the greatest practicable extent the temporarily overcrowded condi-tion of some cars during rush

At the same time A. L. Belle Isle, president of the Black & White Cab Company, declared through his representative, Bruce Moran, that a constant stream of new and modern cabs would be fed into the cab system to give the public the best possible

Belle Isle said his company would attempt to maintain a fleet of around 180 cabs at all times. He added that an effort would be made to keep more cabs on the hotel stands for transporting pas-sengers to and from the railroad and bus stations

Belle Isle said the fleet of approximately 15 Economy cabs would have to be taken off the street temporarily for repainting.

Discussing the proposed im-provements in street car and bus service, Arkwright called atten-tion to the fact that "major changes in a metropolitan trans-portation system cannot be made vernight, but much work already had been done and other improvements now are under way."

No Definite Plans. He said the company was not in position to announce definite plans concerning the operation of additional five-cent bus lines as officials were not certain the lines could be justified. As to past improvements he said: "As soon as the bottom of the depression had passed, the trans-portation department of this company began a long-range program of modernizing its service and its equipment. The trackless trolleys now so satisfactorily serving College Park, East Point and Hapeville are a part of it. So are the shoppers' special buses. So are the large buses which replaced street cars on the Piedmont-Ansley-Morningside-Stewart avenue line. Last year we planned to improve service on the latter line still further by the substitution of trackless trolleys, and this was apandoned only because the pe n the sections served said they didn't want it. The Pine-Cooper bus line, the Luckie-Techwood bus line, extensive track work and other less prominent improvements modernization program in recent Atlantan Was Prominent in Business, Fraternal Circles.

John Rucker Dickey, for many years prominent in Atlanta busi-ness, fraternal and social circles, died at 12:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon at his home, 866 Euclid avenue. He was 82 years of age. A native of Fannin county, Mr. Dickey was educated in the schools of that county and at Maryville, Tenn., and came to Atlanta as a young man. He was connected with the W. & A. railroad for several years, later entering business with the Atlanta Stove Works, which organization he served as secretary-treasurer for many years. He retired from business several years

Mr. Dickey was active in fra-ternal affairs of the city and state. For a number of years he served as president of the Masons' Annuity. He was a past grand com-mander of the Knights Templar of Georgia and a thirty-third degree Scottish Rite Mason.

Mr. Dickey joined the First Baptist church when he came to At-lanta and remained a member for several years, but at the time of his death he was a member of Druid Hills Baptist church.

Lobby Charges Made.

In a prelude, Assistant United States Attorney William P. Malon charged that Buckner and a co-defendant, William J. Gillespie, a broker, took a "lobby of lovely ledier" to Washington and used ladies" to Washington and used large amounts of liquor in an effort to influence legislation in behalf of their scheme.

Miss Carter said that in 1937, after a series of "little parties," she flew to Washington with Buckner and stayed overnight at the Carlton hotel.
"I don't remember whom I met,"

she said, when asked if she had encountered any federal officials, "but there was nothing official about the trip."

Celebrities in Case.

More brilliant performances than Miss Carter's were promised to the autograph-hound audience

when Maloney read a list of per-sons figuring in the case to see if any of the jurors were acquaint-ed with them. The list included: President Manuel Quezon, of the Philippine Islands; Loretta Young who is expected to testify for Buckner; Ronald Colman, Miriam Hopkins, Bing Crosby, Frank Mor-gan and Herbert Marshall, all Hollywood stars; Percy Pyne II, New York socialite; Byrnes Mac-Donald, of Mayor LaGuardia's staff, and Samuel Rosoff, subway-

Others were Doris (Pee Wee) Donaldson, Broadway showgirl; Everett Crosby, Bing's brother; George Breen, Wall Street oper-ator, and Noel Scaffa, private detective and stolen jewelry re-triver. The latter two were named as co-conspirators with Buckner.

Defendants besides Buckner and Gillespie are Felipe Buencamino, American-educated Filipino lawver and legislative leader and son of a former secretary of state of the Philippines; C. Westley Turner, business associate of Buckner, and Captain John Stuart-Hyde, British actor, aviator and social Frequent Showers Continue in Some Sections of State, However.

Meteorologist George W. Mindling reported improved weather for cultivating crops in most sections of Georgia in his weekly summary issued last night, but pointed out that in some places frequent showers continued.
"Grassy cotton fields and corn fields," the summary said, "are re-ported prevalent over several counties between Atlanta and the Alabama line." The report by

Aladama line. The report by Crops:

Cotton—Mostly good progress in chopping and cultivating and good growth reported; squares abundant in south and some beginning to bloom; weather moderately_davorable for weveil activity. Corn Generally favorable weather moderately_davorable for weevil activity. Corn Generally favorable weather moderately_davorable for weevil activity. Corn Generally favorable weather moderately_davorable for westward from Atlanta and some southern counties. Some tassels beginning to show near Fort Valley.

Wheat—Now harvesting north of Atlanta and harvest nearly finished in middle section.

Oats—Nearly all harvested except in northern section, where ripened under most favorable conditions.

Irish Potatoes—Too much rain in a good many places; nearly all dug in southern half of state.

Sweet Potatoes—Very favorable weather for transplanting, which is nearly finished now except in northern section; plants growing nicely.

Tobacco—Curing lugs in some places; growth generally good; considerable damage by heavy rain near Valdosta and burning near Claxton due to ground having heen packed by recent rains.

Truck—Mostly favorable for cultivation and very favorable for cultivation and very favorable for cultivation and very favorable for foothy.

Peanuts and Sugar Cane—Growing nicely.

weather bureau disclosed yesterday.

The review, covering developments of last week, follows:

"Virginia—Cotton about all planted; making little growth.

"North Carolina—Beneficial sunshine; favorable warmth; progress and condition of cotton good; chopping only fairly well advanced on account of too much rain locally.

"South Carolina—Very warm days, Favorable for holding weevil in check; cotton making good progress and condition good with first bloom reported in southern area on June 9.

"Georgia—Cotton chopping fair to good advance in north; squares abundant and some blooms in the south.

"Florida—Progress and condition of cotton fair; chopping fairly well advanced; plants blooming.

"Alabama—Too much rain and soil too wet for cultivation, except in middle, east and central regions; in the north progress and condition poor to good."

WASHINGTON, June 14:-(AP)-'A new relief bill, ordering extentor realize its importance, he said.

Accompanied by his wife, Conappropriating $1,477,000,000 to finance the agency through another year, started through congress to-day as the culmination of months of fighting over relief policies and of fighting over relief policies and expenditures.

Presenting the measure to the house on behalf of the appropriations sommittee, Representative Woodrum, Democrat, Virginia, was roundly cheered when he said it would "clean up WPA," eliminate "the relief racketeer," and make the nation's relief dollar assist a greater number of people.

greater number of people.

For the Republican minority of the committee, Representative Ta-ber, of New York, asserted that the majority had "tried as far as they could to improve the administrative setup and method of op-eration of WPA," but should, instead, have brought in a bill de-centralizing relief by turning its administration over to the states and localities.

With these developments, the house began a three-day battle over the measure, a contest which all concede will result some time Friday evening in passage of the bill, but which is expected to bring several sharp conflicts over its in-dividual provisions. No difficulty was expected over the amount appropriated, for the committee recommended exactly the sum requested by President Roosevelt. The controversies were expected to arise over restrictions the measure places upon the spending of the money.

Foremost among these, to judge by today's debate, was a limitation of $25,000 upon the total cost of any WPA project.

Another was an outright prohibition upon all projects wholly fi-nanced by the federal government. Related to this was another order that the federal theater project be discontinued on July 1.

TARVER WOULD LIMIT WAGE DIFFERENTIALS

WASHINGTON, June 14 .- (AP)-Representative Tarver, Democrat, Georgia, disclosed today the house appropriations committee refused by a single vote to write into the relief appropriation bill a provis-ion limiting geographical differentials in relief wages.

Tarver said he would offer his amendment again on the floor of the house tomorrow or Friday.

Cranston Williams Congratulated at Old Point Comfort on National Position.

OLD POINT COMFORT, Va., June 14. — (A) — Congratulations and best wishes of publishers from 14 southern states were extended to Cranston Williams, of Chattanooga, tonight as they arrived for the 37th annual convention of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association.

Williams, secretary-manager of the S. N. P. A. since 1924, has resigned effective July 1 to become general manager of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, and will be succeeded by Walter C. Johnson, of Chattanooga, treas-urer of the S. N. P. A. In his last report, Williams said it was not easy to decide to leave the S. N. P. A. but that he received the consolation that he would con-tinue in the same kind of work, and be associated in the future with the same friends who had worked with him for 15 years. Williams succeeds Lincoln B. Palmer, who tendered his resigna-tion to the A. N. P. A. in April because of ill health.

A program of entertainment and business, the latter covering vir-tually every phase of the newspa-per field, has been arranged for per field, has been arran the three-day convention.

Williams reported 266 active members of the S. N. P. A. on June 1. He described the mechani-cal conferences held during the past year at Atlanta and Okla-homa City as highly successful under direction of the mechanical men themselves.

Negotiations Impossible With Present Body Named by Federation.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—(P)-Prospects for further negotiations to end labor's civil war seemed to vanish tonight as John L. Lewis, CIO leader, flatly asserted it was ossible to deal with the present AFL negotiating committee.

"The AFL is still under the control of a small group, firmly en-trenched and reactionary in their attitude toward public questions, who are tolerant of many evil conditions existing in the federation," he told reporters.

He spoke after a day-long ses-sion of the CIO executive board, at which a report of the CIO peace negotiating committee was negotiating committee was re-ceived. The committee, at the behest of President Roosevelt, dis-cussed peace with an AFL com-mittee but the talks were broken

Lewis said the leadership of the AFL was working with industrial and financial interests to labor in an attempt to emasculate the CIO "and bring about a crystallization of anti-New Deal sentiment in the

He characterized AFL policy as one of "rule or ruin" and said the federation had threatened to defeat a congressional appropriation for United States participation in the International Labor Organization at Geneva unless it was given all the labor representatives.

Education Costs

Lynn Landrum, who writes a daily column for The Dallas (Texas) News, recently discussed the problem of school finances from an angle so different to the accustomed one that his thoughts are worth repeating and considering by many educators in many states.

It seems that in Texas they are having serious troubles with state finances, just as are we in Georgia. Mr. Landrum points out that governor after governor has entered upon his term at the capitol with the firm determination to reduce expenses, but all have found it impossible because of the always increasing demands of the schools, from kindergarten to graduate work at the university. Perhaps, Mr. Landrum observes, some of the supposed axioms about public education are not so axiomatic as we have thought.

He then challenges the theory that every one is entitled to a college education. "How about social butterflies, football bums, congenital boneheads and all-around loafers," Mr. Landrum asks.

Too much is spent, he suggests, on new buildings and not enough on faculty salaries. "A million-dollar plant in charge of two-bit personnel is the idea, apparently," he comments.

Next he asserts that the state seems to think it is obligated to do anything for the schools that the local taxpayers refuse to do. If taxes won't stand the strain, he says, it is the practice to "sell some bonds and make the taxpaver like it, anyhow. The bonds usually last longer than what they are spent for will last."

That school plants are not used enough, is the contention. No factory could operate successfully with so much time closed down, he

Mr. Landrum then calls on the educators of Texas to help solve their state's problem by studying the devising of means to save school money, rather than by continually seeking to increase the amounts taken out of the state treasury. Condemning too much spending on new school buildings, he states:

"True economy in education is to spend more money on brains and less on bricks. Use the bricks full time and double shift. Use the brains to save on the bricks to we can hire better brains."

The situation in Georgia may not be exactly analogous with that in Texas. Yet undoubtedly there is too great a tendency by Georgia educators to demand every possible, or impossible, cent for public education, even at the cost of crippling other government functions, only nominally less necessary.

Better salaries for teachers should attract better faculty brains, some of which could, as Mr. Landrum suggests, be concentrated upon the problem of securing better education for all the people for each education-dollar spent.

There is a thought there which might, profitably, be adapted to Georgia's situation.

The Feet of An Army

Napoleon is credited with the sage remark that an army travels on its stomach. Now comes the Michigan Chiropodist Association to discard that classic theory. The chiropodists stoutly maintain an army travels on its feet, even in these mechanized days.

So, the association is backing a bill in congress to provide the army with a chiropodist corps, a unit set up along the same lines as the dental corps. Backers of the bill claim the chiropodist corps is just as necessary an adjunct to the Army Medical Corps as the dental corps.

No matter how highly mechanized an army becomes, there are still times when good old footwork is needed. Tanks and other motorized transport have not taken the full load off the army's pedal extremities. Any soldier will agree with the chiropodists that feet must be in good condition to do the work called upon them to do. Any soldier will also agree that nothing quite dampens the spirit as much as "barking dogs." It seems the chiropodists have a good case, Napoleon to the contrary, notwithstanding.

National Town Meeting

A gradual return to the type of pure democracy that found its expression, in the early days of this nation, in the New England town meeting, is taking place today, but on national scale. Statistics used by Dr. George Gallup, of the American Institute of Public Opinion, in a recent speech verify this trend.

Hitherto, direct and uncontaminated exercise of the democratic method of deciding issues was possible only when a community was so small that all of its citizens and voters could meet together, in one place, and openly and frankly debate their problem, following discussion with a prompt and fearless vote by all those present. This was the town meeting.

As the nation grew, however, it became impossible for all citizens of many communities to meet together. Their numbers were too great. At the same time problems became more and more national in scope. It became increasingly difficult to place all angles of any issue before all the people and the only way in which a decision could be reached was by the cumbersome method of national election-an election often unavoidably delayed until many of the voters had forgotten vital issues involved.

Today, however, the almost universal reading of newspapers and ownership of radios is restoring that town meeting method of problem presentation while Dr. Gallup himself, and his institute, provide through their "test polls" of public opinion a method for immediate expression of the views of the entire nation.

In the last presidential election, for instance, 45,000,000 people cast votes. Of these 40,000,000 read at least one daily newspaper, 40,000,000 owned radios and only 2,250,000 were without both newspaper and radio.

Through the columns of the newspapers and from speakers over the radio, full information on national problems can thus be carried, within a few hours, to every corner of the nation. These two agencies make possible a simultaneous presentation of issues and of arguments on both sides. Then, through the Gallup polls, those who read and listen may make known

Someday, perhaps, invention will perfect a machine by which cross debate may be carried on before the entire nation and, by another machine, the nation may immediately vote its

Today we are approaching such condition. Through the daily newspapers and the radio, supplemented by the Gallup polls, we have recreated on national scale the principal advantages of the democratic town meeting of old.

Movies As Art

Few of the millions who daily patronize motion picture theaters think of the screen entertainment they witness as art in the sense that great painting or sculpture is art. Frankly, most of the pictures shown are not. Now and then, however, a picture is made which, for one reason or another, is worthy of preservation as an example of the progress made in picture making as one of the very real modern

In New York, at the Museum of Modern Art, they have for four years been gathering together a film library, to keep for posterity, as evidence of the art of the screen and its development. Now, through series of daily projections, they are showing their collection to all who care to visit the museum. There are 70 films arranged in 30 separate programs. Thus it requires 30 consecutive days to show them all, when the series is restarted.

Among the films in this collection are such ancient triumphs as "The Great Train Robbery" (1903); "Queen Elizabeth" with Sarah Bernhardt (1912); "The New York Hat," with Mary Pickford and Lionel Barrymore (1912); "A Fool There Was," with Theda Bara (1914), and "The Birth of a Nation." Later productions in the collection include "The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari," "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," "The Covered Wagon," "Robin Hood," with Douglas Fairbanks; "Moana of the South Seas," "Little Caesar," "Anna Christie," with Greta Garbo; the first "Mickey Mouse" and the first "Silly Symphony." Oldest of all is a film that requires only one minute to show, made in 1895, "The Execution of Mary, Queen of Scots."

In addition there are French, German and Swedish films in the collection.

These are some of the screen productions which have been considered worthy of preservation as outstanding examples, all of them, of their particular period in the history of picture making. Many of them appear ridiculous to us, yet they mark their own epochs in finest style. Perhaps some picture we see today may, in future years, not only be considered fit for similar preservation, but seem just as ridiculous to some future generation as do these ancient efforts appear to us. In any event it is interesting to learn that some motion pictures, at least, have won recognition as serious art, to be seen in the same institution which hangs world-famous pictures and which boasts its great collection of sculp-

CAPITAL PARADE FAIR ENOUGH

BY JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

AFTERMATH OF ROYAL VISIT WASHINGTON, June 14.-The King and Queen are gone. Generally speaking, they have left behind them a splendid impression, both on natural friends and those who might have liked to be enemies. More specifically, the aftermath of their visit is a wonderful amount of toothsome gossip.

There is the story that, at the White House musicale, the President presented Senator Vandenberg to the King with the laughing statement, "This is a man who expects to succeed me, but he won't"—and then neglected to mention the senator's name. There is the story that, in spite of all the President's expansive geniality, the royal couple's first lunch with the Roosevelts was a sad frost, president in the same uncomfortable semi-silence which marked the ng in the same uncomfortable semi-silence which marked the meal offered the King's brother, Edward, by the Coolidges. is the story that, at Hyde Park, the King and President settled be-tween them all sorts of high political questions.

Some of these, like the last, are patently untrue. Some seem to be reasonably well supported. But, at any rate, they are mere trivia of the sort the visit of the King and Queen was bound to produce. The important thing is that the visit, on the whole, was admirably managed, and did leave behind the splendid impression aforesaid,

WASTED OPPORTUNITIES? Curiously enough, however, the results of the visit do not seem to have been wholly satisfactory to certain officials in the King's and Queen's entourage. The reception of the King and Queen was more than satisfying to the English diplomats in Washington, so that the significance of this minor note of discontent should not be exaggerated. Yet it is interesting, as casting some light on what was hoped from the visit. Two things were found disappointing by these men in the royal suite. In the first place, they intimated privately, in talks with reporters following the King and Queen, that they had rather expected a dramatic presidential utterance, on the old theme of the 'unity of the democracies," to give special point to the occasion. The opportunity for such an utterance undoubtedly existed, in the toasts that were exchanged by King and President, and in the other short speeches which both made from time to time. The opportunity was

In the second place, the same men made a number of quiet efforts to persuade the American reporters to play up the strictly political aspects of the royal visit. They intimated that, if the American press would only stress the theme of democratic unity, it would be unnecessary for the President to do so. The general idea was that it was tragic to waste such a glorious chance to scare the daylights out of the dictatorships.

DOUBLE-ACTION GESTURE Nevertheless, it is quite clear that the wise course was followed. Certainly, when the President pressingly invited the King and Queen to come to this country he had in mind possible reper-cussions abroad. Certainly, their days in this country were the chief objective of the King's and Queen's trip. One member of their suite is said to have remarked, "Isn't it fortunate that Canada was where it is, to give a good excuse for coming over?" But if the demonstration of democratic unity had been too pointed, it would undoubtedly have aroused concern among American isolationists. Any strongly worded utterance by the President, any misstep by the King or Queen would have started the old talk about 'pulling England's chestnuts out of the fire." Even if the King and Queen had journeyed westward, to visit Chicago, as they are understood to have wanted to do, the little side expedition might have been interpreted as an effort to woo the isolationist west. As it was, the greatest care was wisely exercised by all concerned, and no suspicions were stirred or nerves set to quivering.

In fact, the royal visit has proved one more demonstration of the President's talent for double-action gestures. The infuriated tone of the German press made it clear that, even without pointing up, the visit had the desired effect in Europe. And, in this country, it was accepted simply as a splendid holiday pageant, centering around two surprisingly attractive people. On numerous previous occasions the President has made gestures intended to look different at home and abroad. He will make more of them. And, as these gestures commit the country to nothing and do have good results

Once upon a time, children, far, far back in the days of my youth, I aided in the operation of a motion picture theater. Only we didn't call them theaters in those days. They were nickelodeons.

Our establishment was formerly floor sloped toward the rear. We had an isle down the center and about five chairs to the row on either side. Chairs similar to the kind now used by undertakers. (Pardon me. Morticians.)

There was, of course, a box of-With a more or less lovely blonde to accept the nickels and pass out the litte tickets. A ticket-taker, too. So, the one not operating used to act as ticket

We had an orchestra pit. Oh, ny, yes. With a piano, a couple of drums, a wire basket of old cans and rocks and a slab of slate with a couple of half coconut shells. The piano player had a repertoire f a couple of march tunes, half a dozen "rags" and the essential "Hearts and "lowers." He also made "sound effects," with the drums, the old cans and the rocks, and imitated galloping hooves with the coconut shells in all the cowboy and cavalry scenes.

30-Minute

Programs.

Regular programs consisted of two feature pictures (the double feature evil, even then) and an illustrated song. It took 30 min-utes to run the entire show. On rush nights, when folks were waiting outside to get in, we'd drop one of the features and empty the house every 20 minutes, instead. Had an ex-chorus boy from a musical comedy road show-that had gone broke—as our song singer. He'd stand at the side of the screen and baritone his way through some heart-breaking ditties, with stereopticon scenes such as dear white-haired mother standing in the door of a vine smothered cottage. Sometimes the operator would be careless and put scene in upside down, which added to the entertainment. when he left a slide in too long, it was fascinating to watch the heat

On busy days or nights the singer and I acted as ushers.

And, sometimes, one or the other of us would stand beside the screen while the feature was on and give a spoken description of the plot. It was necessary, with many pictures. And many of our pictures were Pathe productions, made in France. A favorite Pathe plot centered around the three characters of the husband, his wife and his mistress. The husband was always the ill-used, but wellmeaning man, the mistress was the sweet and lovely heroine and the wife was the cruel, unreasonable plot was quite morally proper. So our commentator would twist it around and make the mistress a nice, innocent wife or sweetheart and the wife a selfish, hard old guardian or mother-in-law. Of Central America.

We rarely, if ever, advertised a picture under its correct title. We thought we could invent better titles, ourselves. Our advertising consisted of hand-painted signs for the front of the theater, painted retail store. Ideally suited to for 25-cents a piece by a local signour needs. It was narrow and the artist. And then we got a two-reel feature, the first of such a length. It was "Rip Van Winkle." For three days we debated, with doubts and misgivings, if we could raise the price of admission for this remarkable offering. Finally, with great courage, we did. We made it a dime. And felt fortune was when they filled the old store for every performance, regardless. All that, however, was in the

THE NEW BIRTH.

Nicodemus, a man of the Phari-sees and a ruler of the Jews, "came to Jesus by night and said unto Him, 'Rabbi, we know-that Thou art a teacher come from God . . .' Jesus answered and said unto him, 'Verily, verily, I say unto you, except a man be orn again (from above), he cannot see the kingdom of God . . . Marvel not that I said unto you, you must be born from above . . .

In the above mentioned scene, recorded in the third chapter of the Gospel of John, we have the most vital truth of the Christian religion presented by the Son of God Himself to an honest, reverent, questful person, Nicodemus Many lessons emerge—too numerous for this restricted space-but two or three may be mentioned briefly: First, all have come under the condemnation of sin and must be redeemed before they can stand before God justified. Second, one may be morally without reproach and yet miss the main thing for which man was made. Third, one may know the best that has been ought and said, even the law of God, and yet be lost. Forth, there are none so vile that the grace of God does not avail to redeem which truth Saul of Tarsus attests.

To every man come the words of Jesus, "Marvel not that I said Constitution Quiz unto you, you must be born again." And happily, come these "I am come to seek and save that which is lost . . . . I am come that you might have life."

George Whitefield, while preaching in America, wrote a letter to Benjamin Franklin, a portion of which I herewith quote:

"As I find you growing more and more famous in the world of letters and culture, I would recommend to your diligent and un-prejudiced study the mystery of the New Birth. It is a most important matter. I bid you, my friend, remember that One at whose bar we shall presently ap-pear hath solemnly declared that without the New Birth we shall in nowise see His Kingdom . . . And what does it mean to be born from above of water and the Spirit? Read Numbers 19th chap-ter and Ezekjel 36:25-26 and Psalm 51:7 and Hebrews 9:13-14 and Titus 3:5 and James 1:18.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH McGILL.

RELIEF REMAINS Relief and its problems have faded from the front pages to the inside columns. Charges of waste and inefficiency fell flat, Public interest waned.

Yet the lines of those applying for relief remain as long as ever. The problems of human wretchedness are as acute. The sum of human misery remains unreduced. The number of starvation cases received at Grady hospital, called by politer names such as malnutrition or pellagra, remain about stable. They all have as their basis hunger. Pellagra is another name for starvation.

The problems of the workers, their revenue depleted, have not faded. The allotment from the state to Fulton county for special assistance cases was drastically reduced in May, the cut being from $53,200 monthly to $33,000.

$53,700 monthly to $33,000. There are three types of social security assistance: old age assistance, aid to dependent children and aid to the blind. Under the law all cases accepted must be given sufficient funds for "reasonable subsistence compatible with decency and health." Obviously then, the number of cases accepted definitely is limited by the funds at hand. Few families receive more than 75 per cent of their full needs but the law permits that much deficiency.

So much for a brief and inadequate outline of the background.

WHAT GOES ON This is no time for suspicion, for charges or for anger. The county commissioners are doing the best job they can. The welfare workers are doing a faithful job under pressure. They need more trained workers. The day ought to come when only trained workers will be on the job. Meanwhile there is need for understanding. I asked the department for a case which would illustrate what special assistance means. It is a case obtained by reaching into the files, and not through special selection. The names are changed to avoid embarrassment to the family. Otherwise the facts are as stated. The case is not unusual, being routine. It is: ck in March, 1936, a pale, underweight little man applied to the Fulton county welfare department for assistance for his wife and seven children. Until he became ill from infected teeth Mr. B had managed to struggle along independently and take care of his family by employment on WPA. Never had he been able to earn a great deal because he had been denied educational and training opportunities as a child. Reared on a tenant farm, he had had to stop school when quite young to do farm labor. the application the social worker found that Mrs. B's frail physical condition was due to asthma and heart disease. The baby, Joyce, although a year and five months old, weighed only 11 3-4 pounds. Arrangements were made for free medical care for the family through a clinic. In addition to the regular relief allowance, the children were provided with milk. The father soon showed improvement, being able to return to work.

"Ill fortune overtook Mr. B again in the early part of 1937, when he had a bad fall and broke several ribs. Three months later he passed away after several days' critical illness with pneumonia—the result of trying to continue to do heavy work outdoors in cold weather when his resistance was low. "In July, 1937, it was possible for the county welfare department to make plans for the family's care through an aid to dependent children's grant, available through the social security program. This grant was much more adequate to meet the family's actual budgetary needs than the relief allowance given from local funds had been. As the family lived out in Fulton county near Fairburn, it was now possible to work out arrangements for the children's transportation back and forth to the Grady hospital clinic. Martha, the oldest daughter, was able to get proper treatment for a throat ailment. Mary's eyes were examined and glasses secured. She also had infected tonsils, which were removed. Plans were made with the school for the children to receive free school supplies. "With the department's services and its regular aid to dependent children assistance, Mrs. B was able to 'carry on.' The county school reported that all the children attended regularly and showed marked improvement during the 1937-1938 term.

"Were it not for the aid to dependent children grant from the county welfare department, Mrs. B would have no means in the world to care for her children. She is still suffering from asthma, but this does not keep her from devoting her entire energies to her duties in the home. THE BIG PROBLEM

There remains, of course, the big problem. There is no need trying to avoid the fact that there are 11,000,000 people unemployed. It is estimated that of that number about 2,500,000 would be unemployables even if all industry were at capacity. Yet we cannot escape our It is the problem which may wreck the Democratic party when it goes before the people in 1940. It is the problem which the Republicans will take as their chief issue. That they offer no solution will not remove the dissatisfaction. The Republicans cannot make the mistake of attempting to turn back the clock on social reforms Relief grows out of unemployment. Therefore it is something to understand. It is not to be viewed as something which has been created. It ought to go down as pay rolls go up. Creating work is the big job. The political faction which can solve that on a

However, the season mass. 31, would be less than 3,500,000 bales, or the smallest since 1878. In the twenties, exports averaged about 8,000,000 bales.

Two factors were largely re-sponsible for the loss in foreign trade, according to AAA officials. They were the government's loan program, which has pegged prices of the American crop above that of foreign cotton, and a shortage of exportable cotton due to storage of virtually the whole supply of the American staple as collateral for loans to growers. The administration proposes to overcome the price disadvantage in foreign markets by offering ex-porters bounties which would en-

Extolled by Clergyman in Flag Day Address Before Elks Lodges.

A feeling tribute to liberty by Rabbi David Marx, in the course of which he declared that "the seeming evils of democracy are insignificant in comparison to the blessings we enjoy," marked At-lanta's observance of Flag Day yesterday.
His address, delivered last night on the lawn of the Elks Club, Peachtree street, to members of Atlanta, Decatur and East Point lodges, was among several devoted to praise of American institutions and the necessity for vigilance in preserving them from dangers especially Fascism.

Among the speakers were Mrs. James E. Hayes, state historian. who spoke at a luncheon of the woman's division, Fulton county Democrats; Walter S. Steele, who addressed a banquet of the Vetearns of Foreign Wars, and Rev. Mitchell Tileston, pastor of United Liberal church.

The address of Dr. Marx, before the Elks, was the feature of pa-triotic pageantry the order has followed since 1908—the first frater-nal organization to require in its regular ritual a day of observance to the American flag.

Intoned by Dr. I. H. Etheridge, exalted ruler of the Atlanta lodge, the history of flags over America was enacted by a degree team, with the nine flags that have waved over her broad acres being exhibited to a crowd seated under the spreading trees on the lawn. The procession started with the English flag of King Henry VI in 1497, on through the present 13 red and white stripes with 48 stars.

The rabbi, who was recently quoted by Major General George Van Horn Moseley, retired, as saying the flag was only a piece of bunting, was introduced by Dr. Etheridge as one of the city's most beloved, loyal citizens. The crowd

Esmond Brady Had Audience in Rome With New Pope.

Home from a cruise that took him to South America, through Africa from Cape Town to Cairo and throughout Europe, Esmond Brady yesterday told that when he was in Rome only two weeks after Cardinal Pacelli had ascended to the papacy, he was one of the very few persons granted an audience with the new pope.

Although the audience was brief, the Pope chatted interestedly in English to Brady and in French to the two other persons granted an interview at the same time. Brady's audience was arranged by a high Vatican official, a protege of his cousin, the late Sir Thomas Esmond, who, at the time of his death last year, was dean of papal chamberlains. Colorful momentos of his trip, according to Brady, are the more than 2,000 feet of movies of his travels, made in every land he visited and which are valuable documents of animal life, especially in the great African game preserves. One of his best shots, he confesses, is of an oasis on the Sahara desert and Victoria Falls Many other shots, also in colorshow tribal dances seldom seen by a white man, taken deep in

Brady said last night that he was in London when King George and Queen Elizabeth sailed for America on their present tour. He added that the British "seemed crazy about their majesties."

"There have been some irreg-ularities in the operation of such places," McNeal said. "We do not accuse all dealers. We know that some of them are trying to do a legitimate business and to conduct it honestly. We do, however, want to see whom we are dealing with. "THAT'S MY DAD"

For a reproduction of the original painting in this advertisement, without advertising, write to Seagram-Distillers Corp., Chrysler Building, New York City

VERY father gets a warm feeling around his heart when he hears his son say "That's my Dad".

The spirit behind his words is so revealing—the look in his eyes and the tone in his voice-when he says "That's my Dad". In his boyish way he is proudly saluting his hero-the pal he adores and admires. It's a real responsibility to have a youngster say

"That's my Dad". It calls for understanding and thoughtful control: It calls for moderation. When a boy discovers for the first time that his father-his own Dad-has been using liquor unwisely-immoderately-something fine between them may be lost.

The House of Seagram selects "Father's Day" as an appropriate time to repeat the viewpoint we have expressed so often in the past five years -"Fine whiskey is a luxury, one of the pleasures of life to be enjoyed only in moderation - never at the sacrifice of another person's happiness."

Atlanta Matron Is Admired Figure During Visit to National Capital

By Sally Forth.

SALLY FORTH'S scout in Washington, D. C., reports that Atlanta's Mrs. Ewell Gay made a distinct impression upon notables and socialities in the national capital during a recent visit there. As the guest of the Chip Roberts', Mrs. Gay was wined and dined by the elite residing in the district and was an admired figure attending several functions assembling members of the diplomatic set.

Mrs. Gay and her hostess spent one week end during her stay in the nation's capital ctiy at Mrs. Robert's country estate on the eastern shore of Maryland. Accompanied by several friends, Mrs. Gay and her hosts motored to the Maryland home overlooking the Chesapeake bay, where they enjoyed the many diversions offered there.

bay, where they enjoyed the many diversions offered there.

Other high lights marking the Atlantan's recent trip was her visti to Williamsburg, where she and Mrs. Robert spent hours browsing through the quaint thoroughfares of the historic Virginia town. For Mrs. Gay, however, the peak of her visit was reached when she visited Gaymont, ancestral home of the Gay family which over-looks the Rappahannock river near Fredericksburg. So charmed was the matron with the beauty of the old home and its old-fashioned gardens that she plans a return visit there with her sons, Ewell, Ellis and Frank, so they, too, may view the homestead of their forefathers, who settled in the Old Dominion state upon their arrival in this country, in the ploneer era. Incidentally, Mrs. Gay's farm home near Atlanta bears the name of the family home in Virginia. ily home in Virginia.

Regarding Mrs. Gay's recent visit to the national capital, the following comment appeared in a recent issue of The Senator, a smart magazine published in Washington:

Next to pot likker, cracklin' bread and pone, we have always thought the accent of a Georgia widow who is young and charm-ing is the most beautiful thing in existence. We still think so when we talk to Mrs. Ewell Gay, of Atlanta, now visiting here.

"We like the idea of langurous southern beautles making Yan-kees, who are worried about what is going to become of us all, look a little wilted."

Peasant and Mexican Fashions Flood Beaches With Gay Color

Striped and Plain Cotton Combined by Arleen Whelan

By Sheilah Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, June 14.-Ar-+ leen Whelan, soon to be viewed in the Twentieth Century-Fox film, "Young Mr. Lincoln," owns an atractive patio and beach frock made of striped and plain cotton.

Colors in the full horizontalstriped skirt are blue, green and white, with the peasant blouse of all-blue. The costume is set off by a huge Mexican hat in matching colors.

In Eleanor Powell's home wardrobe are all types of pajamas, ranging from man-tailored styles to brilliantly colored silks with to brilliantly colored silks with baloon trousers a la harem. Especially attractive is a tricolor surah ensemble. The blouse or chartreuse slips under the fuchsia trousers and is banded at the waistline in a paler violet tone. The trousers, whose fullness resemble a loosely pleated skirt, are tightly caught at the ankles.

Ann Rutherford is also partial to the trouser-type garment, but Ann prefers the "butcher boy" type of suit. In varied combinations, Miss Rutherford wears easyto-launder gingham or candy-striped boxy blouses buttoned with wooden discs over wide loose trousers-at home in the garden and for active sport wear.

Myrna Loy takes her dinner days in a gown of flesh-colored cotton crepe. Cut in the high-waisted Empire line, the outfit is almost-but not quite-an evening dress. With the gown, Miss Loy wears a matching long-sleeved, floor-length coat, useful for chilly evenings.

Virginia Bruce tells me that Virginia Bruce tells me that black open-mesh net is ideal as a mimmer non-crushable, breezy fabric. The actress' one-piece dress has white net edging its round neckline, on the front bodice opening, and accenting the unpressed pleats of the skirt. This gives the latter a flaring, black and white string effect which is and white stripe effect which is enhanced by the waist-length jacthe white net. than having a husband who is a deceivin' man. The all-time high discover that the man she has loved and trusted has stepped out on her. According to feminine psychology this is the crime of crimes and like most crimes it comes out in the most unexpected manner.

There's lipstick on the collar, note in the pocket, a surreptitious telephone conversation, suspicious trip, a night out, and on the husband's part, admis-sions, confessions, protestations of undying love for his wife, promises that there will be no other lapse—and then another

A woman who knows can rock along for a very short time with-out coming to a decision; but before long she has to decide something. When she's rocking along with a philandering husband, all of a sudden she can't take any more. At this point the wise thing for her to do is to sit down quietly and count the cost of keeping him, also the cost of letting him go, compare the two and see which is cheaper in the long run. Oftener than otherwise she's much better off if she makes up her mind to endure her sorrow and cling to the cause of it. And for several categorical

Third, if there are children she must justify to them her de-cision to divorce their father and even if she manages to put herself in the right light, she's left with the full moral respon-sibility for their upbringing and regardless of what the court ordains that their father shall do for them, she is frequently left with the financial responsibility.

Fourth, she faces, alone, the unpleasant publicity of divorce and it is unpleasant, be not deceived. The world doesn't know and doesn't trouble to inform itself who is right and who wrong. The world doesn't stop to consider whether she picked a poor excuse for a husband or whether she made a poor job of being wife to him. The failure of the marriage is what is publicized.

Fifth, she must endure the aching loneliness of being free after having been bound, she must make the struggle to keep her old place in society or make a new one without benefit of a man's backing and she's reduced to home companionship with children who don't know what it's all about and are conse-quently eternal interrogation

MY DAY President Delivers Diplomas At W. P.

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

HYDE PARK, N. Y.—As we motored to West Point yesterday, I went over in my mind the general impression of the past few days, I have so much confidence in the staff at the White House that I really never troubled about being able to make our royal visitors comfortable there. I did realize, however, that there might well be many little things which we did not understand and which might seem a discourtesy to royalty when they would be merely thoughtless acts on our

I can only say that, if any such things oc-curred, the training of kings and queens served them in good stead, for they never showed the slightest sign of being even put out about anything.

Perhaps the most personal impression which remains with me is the never failing thoughtfulness and graciousness of our guests. No one was ever forgotten, no one was ever greeted except with a smile, and everyone was greeted except with a smile, and everyone was greeted.

At Hyde Park the servants we brought from Washington suffered from a jinx which followed its course in three mishaps! My mother-in-law's serving table in the dining room has a center standard. Too many dishes were put on one side and, in the middle of the dinner, the table tipped over. No one could think for a minute because of the noise of breaking china.

Later in the evening, with a tray full of glasses, water, ginger ale and bottles, one of our men going into the big library slipped and dropped the entire tray on the floor. And as a final catastrophe on Sunday afternoon, my husband, moving backwards across the grass by the swimming pool, almost sat on another tray of glasses and pop bottles!

On each occasion their majesties remained completely calm and

From the standpoint of the public, I think this country will have a kindlier feeling toward the English nation, because so many people saw and welcomed a smiling King and Queen. May it bring us peace for many years to come.

I had the pleasure yesterday of introducing to my husband the gentleman whose acquaintance I made on a plane flying from Oakland, Cal., to Seattle, Wash., last spring. We were the only passengers. Both of us enjoyed the sunrise and had our early breakfast together, and so had plenty of time to talk. Ever since then I felt I would like the President to meet and talk with Mr. Walter

Leavitt, of Spokane, Wash. He arrived with his wife and son on Sunday evening, and I stopped at Nelly Johannesen's, where they were staying, to guide them through the woods to the big house on Monday morning. We all left for West Point a little after 10, and in about five minutes my husband and Mr. Leavitt were talking about trees, which was exactly what I had expected. At the gate at West Point, Mr. and Mrs. Leavitt got out and returned to their own car, while General Bendict got in with us. It was the first time that I had seen the graduation exercises held in the new, big armory. It is perhaps not as picturesque as it was outof-doors, but it certainly is very convenient, and in case of rain, it will mean peace of mind for all those present.

The President made the address and handed the diplomas to all the boys, which is quite an undertaking. I saw him stop the line several times to mop his brow. I had a special interest in one of the graduates because I had known him ever since he was struggling to get an appointment, so I was glad to see him come by with the first step in his career successfully over. In the afternoon he married a young lady who has had the patience to wait six years, which I think augurs well for a happy future.

Afterwards an officer came up and told me of an interesting coincidence. President Theodore Rooseveit had given him his di-ploma, 28 years before, and yesterday my husband gave a diploma

After the President and his staff started back for Washington, I stayed on a little while and then drove back over the Bear Mountain bridge all by myself, feeling for the first time that delicious sense of freedom when you really have no more obligations.

In leisurely fashion I drove over to Fishkill Farms to thank Secretary and Mrs. Morgenthau for the delicious strawberries which we all enjoyed at the picnic on Sunday, and received some extra quarters because they did not think Miss Thompson and I had had enough on Sunday. A puncture on the way home delayed me, but noting had to be done, so I could chat inconsequentially with some nearly at the garage.

Come to think of it marmalade is one of the things I've been wanting to talk to you about. It is a very fine sweet, and one which is not well enough appreciated by many persons. Of course the Scotch have been making it for centuries to be eaten with scones at teatime, and the English wouldn't consider a tea table complete without it, but somehow we Americans have never given it, what seems to me, it's rightful place in our affections. Just the other day I came across a brand of marmalade new to me. Made from Seville oranges, this marmalade is an epicurean delight. It should be on many a pantry shelf, and it would be if you knew how good it is. Quite inexpensive, too.

WASHINGTON, June 14 .- (AP)-Secretary Swanson named a naval court of inquiry of four officers today to start an investigation into the sinking of the submarine Squalus.

The board, headed by Rear Admiral William T. Tarrant, prob-ably will open its inquiry Monday at Portsmouth, N. H., without awaiting the salvage of the sub-marine and recovery of 26 bodies aboard.

In addition to Admiral Tarrant, commandant of the first naval district, Boston, the court includes: Captain Thomas Withers, chief ordnance inspector at the Newport, R. I., torpedo station; Captain William R. Munroe, assistant director of naval intelligence of the navy

Gabler Pitches Opener; Mauldin and Miller Left Behind.

'Atlanta's Crackers, after a couple of night losses to Knox-ville, will open a two-game series tonight in Little Rock. The Crackers left the city last night for the long train ride to Arkansas. Fol-lowing the brief Traveler series, the Crackers move into Memphis for three games, including a dou-

Chattanooga will be the next stop, next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, after which the Crackers return home to meet New Orleans and Birmingham.

The Crackers of 1939 are hitting better as a team and individually, and have a better fielding record than at this time last year, but they are lower in the standings.

At this time last year Little Rock was the pace setter and the Crackers, in second place, were three games behind. The difference in the race is obvious, however. The fourthplace Crackers of today are only four and one-half games behind the first-place Chattanooga Lookouts. Still, there must be a reason why the Crackers, doing better in most departments than they were a year ago, should be tagging along fighting to keep in the first

And the answer is pitching.

Only one pitcher at this time last year was under .500. And three of them had very impressive records. Tom Sunkel was setting the pace with seven victories and only two losses.

Here's the pitching comparison of a year ago and today 1938-1939-Tom Sunkel Frank Gabler Luman Harris Bob Durham Larry Miller Onnie Robinson Clyde Smoll Bill Beckman Larry Miller Bob Durham Prichett Pete Stein J. Poindexter Leo Moon 2 3

As a team, the Crackers of 1938 were hitting .274 and Johnny Hill was the leader with a mark of .341. Today, the Crackers are batting .292 and Emil Mailho is tops with .385. Only Hill, Rose and Mailho were hitting over .300 at this time Mailho, Stan Sperry, Marshall Mauldin, Russ Peters last year. and John Rucker are over .300 now.

Loss of Miller when he was going good was one highly disturbing factor as regards pitching. And the same is true of the loss of Marshall Mauldin, concerning punch.

Another Sunkel has not shown up yet, but one may develop out of either Poindexter or Smoll before the season gets too far A record number of entries, 119, played their first round matches Wednesday afternoon over the Riverside Club course in the four annual West Point invitation tournament. It is a screwy year! SAME OLD MEMPHIS.

With the lines drawn tighter than the reins on a skittish horse, one would naturally expect all the Southern league clubs in the thick of the race to be attracting turn-away crowds at home, but Memphis is the same old Memphis.

Most startling development of the season occurred last Sunday. The Chicks had just won 11 games in a row and were billed with New Orleans in a double-header. Hart Win in Women's Play.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY. Black-haired Billy Gillespie's play yesterday was as determined as the expression on his face and the Miami University netman rallied and then rallied again to eliminate fifth-seeded Russell Bobbitt, 5-7, 6-3, 9-7, to gain the quarterfinals of the southern tennis championships.

After dropping the first set, Gillespie suddenly found himself on the short end of a 0-3 score and nearly out of the tournament. He clinched his teeth a bit firmer and went to work and won the next six games and got right back into the middle of things.

The third set was as thrilling as a 33-32 football game. Gillespie was at match point four times before finally winning. Bobbitt had a chance at the match twice. Both were worn and weary at the fin-

By KENNETH GREGORY. NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 14.-(P)—Although slipping a stroke off the par pace on his second round, slender Freddie Haas Jr, of New Orleans, twice the tournathree-footer at the 17th.

Yeteran Chasteen Harris, of Memphis, tournament victor in 1931, and Henry Castillo, of Baton Rouge, La., were trailing in third place with totals of 146. CLOSE CALL.

Skip Alexander staged a great rally down the stretch that barely missed tieing Haas for the medal trophy. Coming to the home green, Alexander needed a par 4 to deadlock Haas. He was short with his approach and then chipped 2 feet from the cup.

After studying the putt, he hit the ball and it rolled all around the cup and hung on the lip. Had it dropped it would have given him a 141 total. However, in his next attempt to knock the ball down, he missed it, and to make certain that he would not be disqualified he took a 6 on the hole

It was at the eighteenth green yesterday that Alexander missed a two-footer that would have given him a 69 and a tie with Haas for the 18-hole lead.

Clear Thinking To Decide Constitution's 'Namethe-Term' Contest.

Most contests are won on sheer luck. Here is a chance to win a season's pass at Cracker games by merely putting your brain to use. Herewith are presented eight more pictures in The Constitution's big baseball contest. All you have to do is name the baseball term which fits each picture. Some of them are easy; others require a bit of

In all, there will be 35 pictures. There will be only three more, after today and they will be published tomorrow. If you are behind in the contest, all you have to do is get your back copies of The Constitution. The contest began last Sunday.

PARIS, June 14 .- (AP)-Americans occupied three semi-final brackets in the men's singles in the French hard courts tennis championships today.

Bobby Riggs, America's No. 1 amateur and seeded first, showed the way with a 6-2, 2-6, 8-6, 75 victory over Ignacy Tloczynski, of Poland. Elwood Cooke, of Portland, Ore., and Don McNeill, of Oklahoma City, joined him. Cooke eliminated Henry Billington, of England, 6-4, 6-4, 6-1, and McNeill beat Ferenc Puncec, high ranking Yugoslavian, 6-4, 1-6, 6-3, 6-1. The other semi-final place was filled by the Hungarian, O. Szigeti, who whipped Christian Boussus

Speculators, apparently, felt that prices had gone far enough in the reactionary swing and bought back shares which they earlier had sold. However, their activities did nothing to speed the rate of tradng and the total transfers were among the smallest in a month—399,370 shares compared with 531,-870 yesterday. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .2 of a point at 47.5, the lowest level in nine days. It was the third successive day of setback.

market days was 9.34 cents a pound.

NEW YORK, June 14.—(P)—
The cotton market had to be content with gains of 2 to 7 points today as weekly weather details, a little more favorable than the trade had looked for, checked the outside and speculative buying that had appeared the previous day.

Nevertheless contracts were scarce and came out only on advances, chiefly from professionals or from spot houses selling at fixed prices.

Money Market.

When July hit a high of 9.30 cents today, the trade gave increased attention to the narrowing differences between that delivery and October and December. Chief reason for this, analysts said, was the belief the only relief in sight for the present tight spot set-up lies in the movement of new crop cotton, which will not get under way until mid-August or early September. But with the government apparently determined at least 1939 deliveries near present loan levels, it was felt those months would move into close relationship with July.

Although the government weather summary indicated parts of Texas are still too dry for germination, and weeds and grass were plaguing other sections, the LONDON whole as a stand-off. Worth Street reported rather light business despite fair inquiry.

CHICAGO, June 14. - (AP) -Wheat prices, after falling 6 to 7 cents during the past two weeks, turned upward today, gaining as much as 7-8 cent at times. Trade was light, however, and fractional setbacks from best levels were frequent. Higher Liverpool quotations, fears of rust damage spread to the domestic spring wheat area, and disappointing reports of har-vesting in the Southwest aided the upturn. Some unfavorable European crop reports and good export sales of North American wheat overnight and today—estimated at 1,000,000 bushels-also helped. Corn opened firm, but eased later in light trade. Crop news was generally favorable and there was no foreign demand for the grain. Oats followed wheat, trade being mainly local. Rye was firm, advancing as much as 3-4 cent, but later lost part of its gains.

Sugar and Coffee.

NEW YORK, June 14.—Active hedging NEW YORK, June 14.—Active hedging of raw supplies swept near-by domestic sugar futures into low ground for the season before the movement was checked today. From maximum losses of 5 points, final prices worked back to a range 2 to 3 points off on sales of 25,120 tons.

World futures followed the London pattern and ended 1 to 2 points down despite a late raily. Sales totaled 4,550 tons; July 127, September 1.08%.

A new spot raw sugar price was established on sale of 8,000 bags of Puerto Ricos now clearing at 2,800 cents. Refined continued at 445 to 4.50 cents.

NEW YORK, June 14.—Reports of better Brazilion weather dampened buying interest in the Santes coffee contract today. Near-by covering held the Rio list relatively steady.

Santos ended 2 to 8 points lower on sales of only 3,750 bags: July 5.98, September 5.98, December 6.93. Vo.58, September 5.11. Oliver 1.00. sales of only 3.750 bags; July 5.96, Sep-tember 5.96. New Rio was inactive and nominally 2 lower to 14 higher. Interest in actual coffee was sluggish; Santos 4s at 7%; Rio 7s at 5%. Cost and freight offerings included Santos bourbon 2s and 5s at 6.25 to 7.30.

NEW YORK, June 14.-(A)-Selected issues managed to mark up small gains in today's bond market, but the majority of active loans closed fractions to around a point lower.

United States governments, recently selling at record highs, tended to taper in light dealings. Final prices were 4-32ds of a point higher to 13-32ds down.

Proceedings rolled along with little fresh home business news, and most investors stuck to a "wait-and-see" attitude. Traders said a factor in the lower prices, especially of medium-priced loans which have tended to move with stocks, were the slipping security values in London. The London markets have declined in six out of the last seven trading sessions, and this trend had caused fear in some circles new European political unsettlement might be brewing.

Transactions totaled $4,421,000, face value, compared with $4,631,-025 Tuesday.
